

No Integration on Buses Says Beam

Charles A. Beam, owner and operator of the Bay St. Louis Waveland Bus lines, said that whites and Negroes will continue to sit separately on local buses.

Monday the U. S. Supreme Court outlawed segregation of passengers on all public buses and trolley operating within a state.

Beam said that he would not honor the court's decision and will not allow intergration of his buses.

New Orleans Public Service officials said under their state law segregation is demanded, and they will comply with those laws. They also said the high court's decision applies only to South Carolina, where the specific case originated.

Mississippi and Louisiana are among 13 states that forbid intergration in public transit systems.

Mrs. Jacobs presented a brilliant review of the book, pointing out that this particular brand of politics is now almost extinct.

Arrangements of spring flowers were used throughout the rooms of the library, with a striking bouquet of yellow stock in the speakers table. A reception in honor of Mrs. Jacobs followed the review with Mrs. H. A. Thompson as hostess. The tea table was covered with an even cloth and centered with red roses. Mrs. Sam Whitfield presided at the punch bowl.

And a good time was had by all

Last weekend the Ninth District of American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary held their first joint conference and Bay St. Louis was selected as the site.

The conference included some 13 Legion Posts from nine counties, with the local Legion and Auxiliary as hosts.

Much credit goes to the local organizations responsible for bringing the conference to Bay St. Louis. A lot of effort went into the planning that made the meeting a success, and visitors passed many favorable comments on the enjoyable time they had in Bay St. Louis.

This sort of endeavor goes a long way toward combating the unfavorable publicity and unsavory reputation of the state's "problem child" city.

Hotel Reed also is to be commended for their excellent catering of the affair, and the extra effort expended by Howard LeTissier and his able crew to provide a good time for the visitors.

CABBAGES and KINGS

Grace Graces Monaco

Monaco, the tiny principality on the Mediterranean, is noted for its gambling, its beauty, its Prince and now its Princess, but mostly for its size—or its lack of size.

Its 368 acres, bounded on the north, east and west by France, would fit neatly into New York City's Central Park.

Writing of this diminutive country, in the May Reader's Digest, George Kent says it boasts many of the trappings of big nations. It has a flag, a language, an army (69 strong), a parliament, museums, a railroad and a bus line.

It has, also, some things larger nations would like to have: a balanced budget, an absence of taxes, and now Grace Kelly.

A shrewd French businessman named Francois Blanc brought Monaco romance and unprecedented prosperity. In 1863 Prince Charles III permitted Blanc to operate a gambling casino. It was called Monte Carlo. For the prince, later changed to Monte Carlo. M. Blanc got rich, earning up to $25 million a year. Out of his take he shouldered the entire budget of Monaco.

The hero of the song, "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," was an Englishman Charles Wells, who won $200,000 in three days. Actually, he didn't break the bank. As the Casino keeps on hand a million dollars in cash and can get more at short notice, "breaking the bank" is impossible.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Joseph Taconi, Sr., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Flora Marie, to Mr. Russell Henry Simons, son of Mrs. H. R. Simons of New Orleans, and the late Mr. Simons. The wedding will take place May 19, 1956 at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

SOUTHERN SAMPLERS

BY CHRISTOPHER BELL

We learned with sorrow that the pleasant custom of selecting a young lady to represent the counties and State of Mississippi as Miss Hospitality is being discontinued. We learned, too, that a reason given for this was the young ladies competing and not chosen would feel bad because of missing out.

Ten years ago, both high school sororities and fraternities were outlawed for, among other reasons, fear that someone might have his feelings hurt by not being invited to join. So many, the majority in effect, were deprived of the benefits of belonging to a congenial "group club" just to protect the very few who might be left out.

Well, that just about sums up the whole general mistaken policy that has afflicted both school, social and business activities in the last decade. Some sort of queer belief seems to be about some sort of conspiracy to keep from hurting anyone's feelings—a dread fear that people will develop "complexes" by failing. All this modern day fallacious thinking has turned out a group of young people who just don't have to make the extra effort to do anything, because, voila! they're not going to feel bad if they fail. Everything is to be reduced to a general level that almost anyone can attain, with little or no effort.

I'd like to know whatever gave anyone the idea that there was anything fundamentally wrong in failing. Actually, from all I have ever read, every failure is just a step towards success. And the reason for trying is to reach a goal. Now it seems even in a pleasant little contest the goal, and even the contest, is to be outlawed, because losers might feel bad.

Used to be people made a point of trying to be good losers, many coming back to win. But now effort itself is pretty soon to be outlawed, according

SEWING GROUP MEETS

The Volunteer Sewing Group of the Red Cross met last week at the home of Mrs. Arthur J. Chapman, Sr., with the following members present: Mesdames Elizabeth Weston, Paula Jenks, J. A. Coward, Nellie Nelson Caroline Woodcock, William Argus, Ruth Royalty, Emma Dinkelstein, Carl von Metzradt, and Maude Hoefeld.

The group continued working on the Christmas stockings and the afghan for the Veterans Hospital in addition to beginning a new project of protective beanie caps for the convalescent patients at the hospital.

Mrs. Chapman served a coffee course following the meeting.

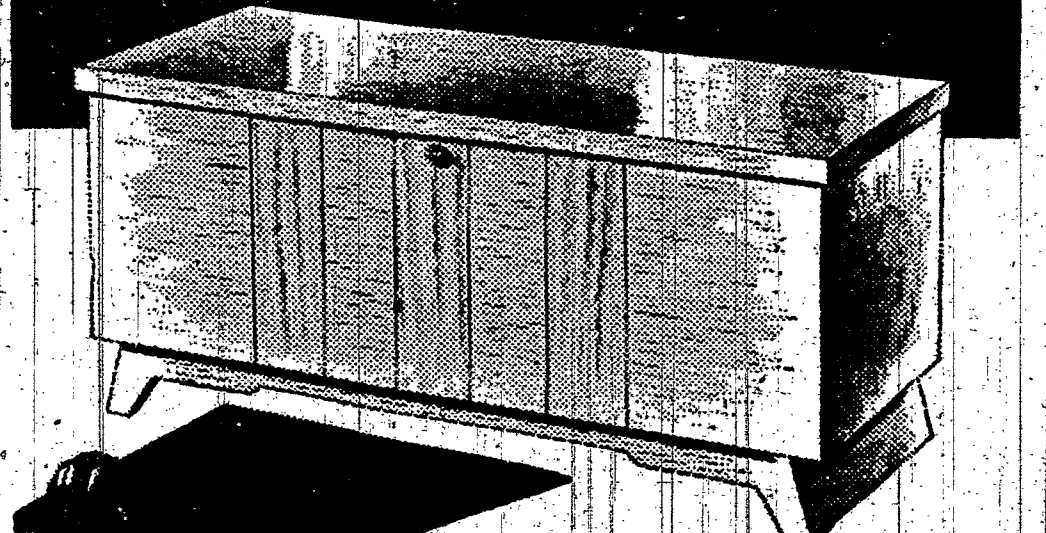

tude that usually shines through and influences the judge's decisions. And personality and attitude are two things that a girl controls herself, apart from the happenstance of nature's gift of beauty.

I would like to see the time come back when the natural law of life was followed again in our various activities, that to the best equipped go to the conquests of life. Then winners could win without losers weeping. After all, the only way to get through life in any reasonably happy way, it seems to me, is to learn, and learn early that you can't have everything; effort alone. But although a gift of beauty helps, in most of what you do have and maybe these contests it's the girl's come back to win another day. —CPB.

Light Up the Sky' Opens at Bay Little Theatre Last Night

By Christopher Bell

A nicely paced comedy, "Light Up The Sky," lit up a quiet evening for Bay St. Louis last night with quite a few bright lines and rather breath-taking fireworks in the latest haute monde - the latter being the stunning originals worn by some of the cast.

However, startling effect the "originals" had, they could not take away from the genuine effort and "good theatre" that went into the casting, acting and staging of this Moss Hart hilarity. The three-act play is scheduled for its second and third performances Friday and Saturday nights. Curtain time each night is 8 o'clock.

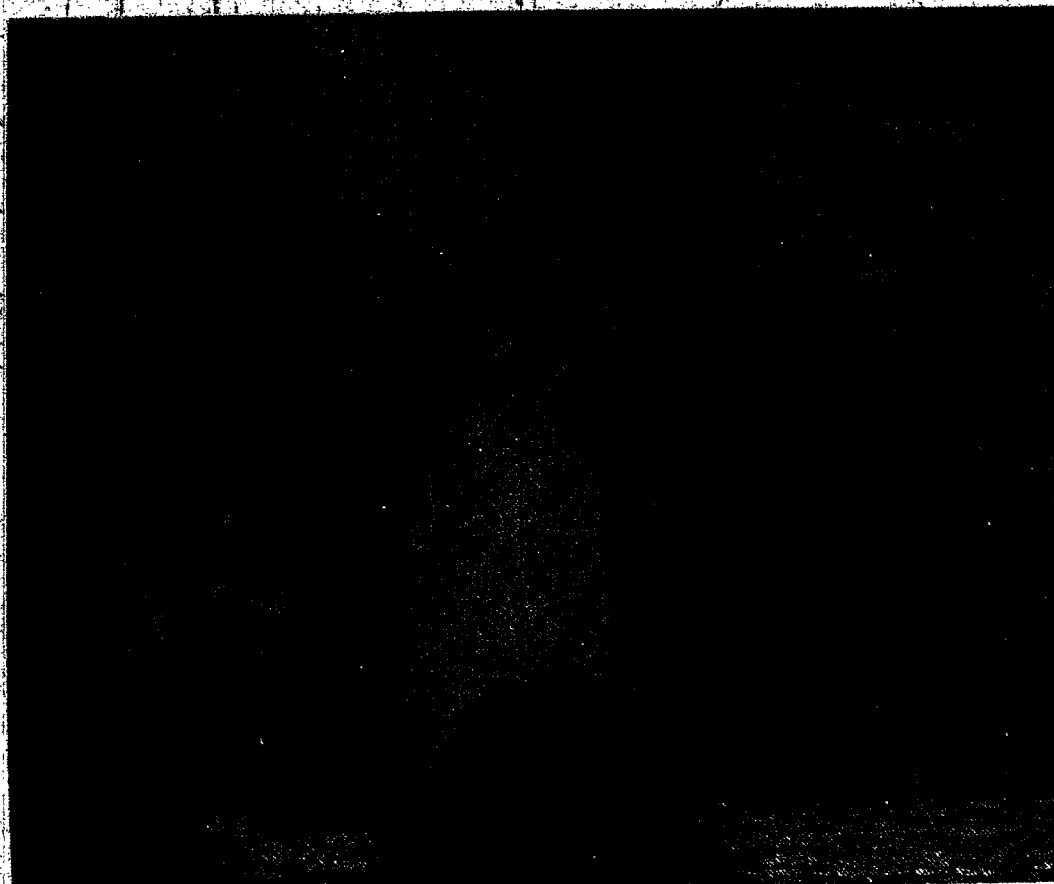

Mary Lynn Ansley as the actress Irene Livingston got off to a good start with what appeared to be quite genuine tears and went on from that bit of hysteria to a rather mature handling of the role.

Ezelda Ling, a good, steady performer, as well cast in the part of the brazen and generally obnoxious mother of the female lead. Mrs. Ling displayed considerable ability, seemed to be always in command of her lines and delivered them with a felicity seldom encountered in amateur theatricals.

Mayor John Scaffide, as a rich and optimistic "angel" comes through with an exceptionally smooth voicing of his lines and a relaxed naturalness that provided an excellent foil for his tempestuous, irrepressible stage wife, Myrtle Stieffel. Mrs. Stieffel's ability in dramatics must have already been effusively praised. Suffice it to say now that it was clear, fresh and invigorating and gave vitality to what at times seemed a too static story line.

Actually, all of the roles were well handled. Henry Osonich, in his first role, as husband of the temperamental actress, turned in a pleasant performance.

Mrs. Fred Pilcher, Mexico, Missouri, arrived last weekend for a two week stay with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald and family.

ing performance. Philip Allison gave his usual credible account, as the tearful playwright. Gary Taylor, with two previous performances behind him, showed confidence in his role as novice playwright, while Leslie Walters offered a sincere portrait of the veteran writer of plays, Owen Turner.

Ray Stieffel and Henry Adams were adequate as Plain Clothes Man and First Shriner respectively. Adams is well known in the Little Theatre, while Stieffel was in his first role.

The green, we suspect, ever-silent parrot, Pluto, rounded out the cast.

"Light Up The Sky," was produced and directed for the Little Theatre by Philip Allison. State sets by C. E. Ripple, Katie Ripple, Herbert Wise and Philip Allison and set and costumes by Vickie Hill, as well as artistic effects by Katherine Wilson, contributed to the successful performance.

Boats and Boating

M.B. Law Requires Basic Safety Equipment Even On Outboards

By Jim Pfeiffer

In the case of outboard motorboats, the same requirements as to safety equipment must be met as specified for the general classes of motorboats (inboard) of identical length, with the exception of the requirements of ventilation and carburetor flame arrester.

However, outboard motorboats less than 26 feet in length, of open construction, not carrying passengers for hire, are not required to carry fire extinguishers, and outboard motorboats not exceeding 16 feet in length are not required to be numbered.

In addition to a combination light in the forepart of the boat showing red to port and green to starboard, from dead-ahead to two points abaft the beam, and a white light aft, showing all around the horizon, boats of Class A (less than 16 ft.) are required to carry lifesaving devices.

This includes one U.S. Coast Guard-approved life preserver, buoyant vest, ring buoy, or buoyant cushion in good serviceable condition for each person on board.

The same requirements apply to Class 1 motorboats (16 feet to less than 26 feet). In addition a Class 1 boat is required to carry a hand-mouth, or power-operated whistle or horn capable of producing a blast of at least 2 seconds' duration and audible for a distance of at least a half mile.

All inboard motor boats are required to carry fire extinguishers, regardless of class. Class A and Class 1 inboards must have at least one of the following types of Coast Guard approved extinguishers:

- 1 1/2 gal. foam
- 1 lb. carbon dioxide
- 1 qt. carbon tetrachloride
- 1 lb. dry chemical

Class A and 1 boats equipped with fixed CO2 systems are not required to have the above portable extinguishers, however.

Outboard boats of open construction less than 26 feet in length, not carrying passengers for hire, are not required to carry fire extinguishers. However, if there is an enclosed space, however small, the outboard must carry prescribed fire extinguishing equipment.

All inboards also must have two or more ventilators with cowls or equivalent capable of removing gases from the bilges in engine and fuel-tank compartments, if they use gasoline for fuel. Motorboats so constructed as to have the greater portion of the bilges under the engine and fuel tanks open and exposed to the natural atmosphere at all times are not required to be fitted with such ventilators.

Carburetors on all engines on motorboats (other than outboard engines) must be fitted with an approved device for arresting backfire.

IT'S TORQUE THAT MAKES THE WHEELS GO 'ROUND!

... And the High-Torque Output of Oldsmobile's
Famous Rocket Engine Is Instantly Translated Into Outstanding Performance at the Rear Wheels!

It's TALK TORQUE! In plain language, torque is "twist." It's the force that makes the wheels go 'round.

So it follows... the more torque your engine has, the more go power your car has... the more getaway at the light... the more action on the open road!

That's why, when it comes to power, there's nothing like Oldsmobile's Rocket T-350 Engine—because the Rocket is torque TNT! Figures prove it: 350 pound-feet at 2800 rpm (340 pound-feet at 2400 rpm in '56 models).

OLDS CHASSIS IS ENGINEERED TO HANDLE HIGHER TORQUE!

Oldsmobile has the chassis to take Rocket torque... a skillfully engineered Oldsmobile chassis with an extra-sturdy, dynamically balanced drive shaft, and an extra-rigid frame that resists twisting and weaving.

What's more, the Rocket's got horsepower—to spare! And with Oldsmobile, it's high usable horsepower... a by-product of engine design aimed straight at the wheels—design that translates horsepower into terrific torque at normal engine rpm's.

TOP TORQUE MEANS TIP-TOP PERFORMANCE!

The result is higher torque—silken, responsive Rocket action. Touch the accelerator—ever so gently—you "go"... and we do mean "GO!" You thrill to smoother, swifter bursts of power for everyday use—spectacular performance, when you need it... when you want it!

Any way you look at it, you can't top the Rocket for thrills for the money—or for top return when it's time to trade. Stop by soon. Rocket 'round the block... or around the town if you like!

OLDSMOBILE'S ROCKET—a double winner in 1956 Mobilgas Economy Run. Get the feel of top horsepower, top torque in the engine that's an economy champion, too!
